

ABSTRACT

The present invention describes a system for enabling a host computer to reset individual client computers. The invention allows the host to apply the reset to any or all clients, and to inhibit additional resets during a host power-on event. The invention
5 additionally allows individual client modules to reset other client modules, given that the issuer is authorized and equipped to do so.

055133.P028